

The Canadian Journal of Music Therapy / Revue canadienne de musicothérapie is now offering subscriptions to institutions for its print-only journal. Our journal, published by the Canadian Association for Music Therapy since 1973, is a peer-reviewed publication that aims to raise international standards of music therapy knowledge and practice, providing a written medium for the dissemination of ideas, methods, processes, inquiry and research by Canadian music therapists and allied researchers on any subject relevant to music as therapy. We maintain a broad international readership. Articles are accepted and published in both French and English.

Who reads the Journal? Many people beyond music therapists: teachers, music educators, clinicians, specialists, psychologists, researchers of the humanities, human conditions, creative arts, and those interested in alternate therapies, modes of inquiry, and music as medicine.

Now is a great time to obtain a subscription to the Canadian Journal of Music Therapy! We typically publish once annually and the next regular issue will be out in May 2008. However, we're currently producing two additional journals, with one being a special issue on emerging research. Both of these extra journals, along with our regularly published journal, are available at one low subscription rate, payable by cheque or by Visa through our head office (call 1-800-996-CAMT). This offer expires November 1, 2007. You can also complete this form and fax it to 519.886.9351.

For organizations wishing to enjoy the privileges of membership, please consider our Corporate Membership (this includes the "Ensemble", our newsletter published twice per year; CAMT Sourcebook; Conference Proceedings; voting privileges) we invite you to consider the Corporate Membership ($330/year). The regular subscription does not include membership in the CAMT.
